Sister-School Exchange Coming To An End For 2018

Part 1

13 days ago, we fare-welled our 6 students as they hopped into cars with complete strangers. As they drove away, my stomach churned. 'What on earth are we doing!?' I thought. We are on the other side of the world, with other people's children who we've now sent off into the unknown.

Nilay, a teacher at our Sister School assured us all was okay. One hour later, the messages came in from the students that they were happy and they were safe.

I write this on our last night in Canakkale after having a farewell with students and parents this evening. There is no word in the English language (and I'm not fluent enough in Turkish yet to know if there's one there either) that can describe what Mr Leed and I have witnessed amongst both Australian and Turkish students the past 13 days. Language, culture and religion can separate us if you allow it, or, you can embrace it and build strong connections which, I'm certain will not be broken.

The Canakkale newspaper wrote an article on our visit last week titled 'Children will save the world'. As we all said our farewells tonight (hugging, crying, laughing all rolled into one) I felt comforted that with projects like this our children will in fact be the ones that save it.

I am so proud of our 6 students who have stepped well and truly out of their comfort zone in the lead up to this trip and during our time away. Their growth over the last four weeks has been incredible and none of this would be possible without the support of everyone in the East Loddon Community. Thank you all for getting behind our students and encouraging them to try something new.

I'll keep searching for those descriptive words to help explain this experience... maybe one day I'll find the right words.

(Sarah Pilkington)

Part 2

Our Sister-School experience this week produced a major highlight for staff and students with the announcement that we would be able to attend the dawn service at ANZAC Cove on April 25th. This exciting news was further strengthened when the Turkish Government granted permission for our Sister-School's host students to attend the service with us, this being the first time that this has ever happened! The dawn service at ANZAC Cove was a tremendously special event and one which we are sure to never forget! The sight of our East Loddon students preparing for the occasion with their Turkish counterparts, and then mingling, chatting and trying to keep warm in the cool night air was one that was so terrific to be a part of. The respect shown throughout the service made us feel very proud and to imagine that we were at a site that 103 years earlier had been a grounds for battle against each other, was quite surreal! The media were fascinated by this also, and also by

Principal's Report

Respect - Resilience - Responsibility - Relationships

the connection to war shared by Jasmine and Will, and we were bombarded with requests for our story. We were taken by private van to ANZAC Cove to record interviews for Australian media outlets before the actual day and we were involved in a 'live-cross' to Australia from the service itself, as well as a cross to a Turkish television station. Please understand that this was wonderful, but by no-means the highlight of the occasion for us. The bond shared between the students of Doga and East Loddon was by far and away the highlight of the service for us and will no-doubt be something special that we can reflect upon well into the future.

It is quite amazing to see how a story grows. One article in the Bendigo Advertiser about Will Stringer and Jasmine Lawry's amazing connection to World War 1 has now led to what I mentioned above, as well as exposure for our College in the New Zealand Herald, CNN Turkey, London's Daily Mail, SBS Radio, 3AW Radio and several Australian newspapers, as well as online media sources (most of which we have never heard of).

We feel so fortunate to have been involved in something as special as a dawn service at ANZAC Cove and we were thrilled to hear that our live-cross from Gallipoli was witnessed by those sharing lunch at the Calivil Hall following the presentation from Mr Wilkinson and Jo Cartwright.

We would like to once again extend thanks to all in the community that have supported us with continuing the sister-school exchange that has been established with our partner school in Canakkale. It is truly an amazing project that we should all be proud of!

(Steven Leed)

I hope that everyone is going well back at East Loddon and I look forward to returning to school this Monday.

Have a great weekend!

Assistant Principal's News

I love weeks like this. Disrupted with assemblies and Public Holidays. Hooray. Tomorrow is Friday already and it only feels like Monday.

Thanks to everyone that attended the ANZAC assembly on Tuesday. The kids were extremely well behaved. Please congratulate them on this. My highlight was Kiera T who read the response to Flanders' Field without reading any notes at all. This is not an easy poem, but she stepped up to the plate and rattled it off like she'd been practicing for years. FYI, she first read the poem last Friday. Well done! We also went to the schools ANZAC service at the Melbourne Shrine last Friday. Pictured below are our captains Levi, Riley, Kiera and Alicia on the steps of the Shrine then Kiera and Riley our Junior Captains laying a wreath at the eternal flame. Lest We forget!

At Tuesday's College assembly we had a bit of a change of look, following work from Mr Bunton who made us two silhouette soldiers and Mrs Heaslip who patiently made hanging strands of poppies. Both of these looked amazing, thanks to these two staff members for this. Pictured below is Major Sheriff who spoke at the assembly. The gym was also decorated with the wonderful work that our students had been completing in the lead up to ANZAC Day.

Yesterday, continuing with the ANZAC theme, Jo C and I were privileged with being asked to speak at the ANZAC Service in Calivil. Though nervous in front of a big gathering, we spoke a lot about our schools Sister School program and the connections that this makes with ANZAC Day. We also described how projects such as these do not work without the help of the entire community. When we were finished, after waking everyone up, we marched to the cenotaph and had a short service. Almost like it had been organised, during the shared luncheon, the TV crossed live to channel 7 where they were interviewed Mr Leed and Jasmine L. You could have heard a pin drop in the room and when the interview was complete there was a loud cheer from the crowd. It's something I will never forget. Put it in the file under O for 'Our school and community is Awesome'.

In other news, surely other things have been happening, It is Anna's last day tomorrow. As such we had a farewell assembly today at the start of lunch. I have just spoken to Rachel, her host mum and we reminisced a little about what a wonderful student and family member she has been for the Hay's. I'm sure Emma Alicia and Sophie will miss their new sister. How's this for a highlight, she delivered a lamb. That's something you don't experience if your host family lives in Sydney. Anna also won the Cross Country whilst staying with us and has been a popular member of the Year 10 class. We wish you safe travels Anna and know that Sophie will bring us back all the news from Germany after she visits you this summer. Well done to Frau Mc and Frauline Burgstett for all of the work the German Department has done in organising this. We will all miss you Anna.

Every time I check in online with the Turkey travelers life is good, they are having an awesome time and always bragging about the fun stuff they have been doing, seeing. I am looking forward to hearing more about their travels and seeing their gorgeous photos. Hopefully, they still want to talk to small time people like me, after they have become media personalities! Thinking of you guys and safe travels home. I tried to find them on Sunrise, but just ended up hearing on repeat about the new royal baby.

Congrats Jo & Mr Wilkinson

Yesterday I had the pleasure of attending the Calivil ANZAC day service. It was terrific with community attending and honouring those soldiers that had fought for their country and some who had paid the ultimate price. In particular I attended the day to support Jo C and Mr Wilkinson who had been invited to speak. What a special opportunity? I loved hearing about their family history and personal travels to Turkey. You both did a great job, congrats. Check out the photos above of them both running in our recent Cross Country.
